Duquesne Women in Philosophy Conference
Saturday, March 21, 2015
Thomas J. Murrin Room (Rockwell Hall 505)
Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, PA

Content Warning: Conference deals with themes of violence

9:15-10:30
Round Table: Being a Woman Scholar

10:45-11:30
I love you, I kill you: An attempt to Conceptualize Intimate Femicide on the Basis of an Intersubjective Theory of Power and Domination
Federica Gregoratto
(Goethe-Universität Frankfurt/Campus Westend)

10:45-11:30
I love you, I kill you: An attempt to Conceptualize Intimate Femicide on the Basis of an Intersubjective Theory of Power and Domination
Federica Gregoratto
(Goethe-Universität Frankfurt/Campus Westend)

11:30-12:15
Fetishized Flesh: On Violence and Justice
Anne van Leeuwen
(Case Western Reserve University)

11:30-12:15
Fetishized Flesh: On Violence and Justice
Anne van Leeuwen
(Case Western Reserve University)

12:15-1:00
Fanon, Butler and Arendt on Framing Violence
Imge Oranli
(DePaul University)

12:15-1:00
Fanon, Butler and Arendt on Framing Violence
Imge Oranli
(DePaul University)

1:00-2:15
Lunch Break

1:00-2:15
Lunch Break

2:15-3:00
Anamnesia: Remembrance and Resistance in Benjamin and Fanon
Taine Duncan
(University of Central Arkansas)

2:15-3:00
Anamnesia: Remembrance and Resistance in Benjamin and Fanon
Taine Duncan
(University of Central Arkansas)

3:00-3:45
The Making of an Identity: Subjectivity, and the Construction of the Self in Extended Cases of Childhood Sexual Abuse
Kit Connor
(Miami University)

3:00-3:45
The Making of an Identity: Subjectivity, and the Construction of the Self in Extended Cases of Childhood Sexual Abuse
Kit Connor
(Miami University)

4:00-6:00
Keynote: Love and Violence
Ann Murphy
(University of New Mexico)

4:00-6:00
Keynote: Love and Violence
Ann Murphy
(University of New Mexico)

Keynote Speaker: Ann Murphy
University of New Mexico

VIOLENCE AND EMBODIMENT

Sponsored by Critical Race Theory Speaker Series (coordinator: Dr. George Yancy), McAnulty College of Liberal Arts, Department of Philosophy, Women’s and Gender Studies, Duquesne Program Council