TECHNOLOGY LAW GROUP, Washington, D.C. area

Founder, Chief Technology Counsel, 2003-Present

History – In 2003, I founded state’s only woman-led technology law firm. Since its inception to present, the firm has employed a virtual technology-enabled model and used an agile practice approach, convening targeted teams and expertise to execute on client projects. Within less than three years of start-up, I had built the state’s largest intellectual property firm and only woman-owned such firm with $1M in revenue with a team of nineteen. I began my independent scholarship on female entrepreneurship in 2008 and returned to Washington, D.C. in 2009 as visiting scholar and then fellow with The George Washington University (GW) Law School. I have operated the firm continuously since 2003 and virtually as a solo collaborative practice since 2009. Since joining the academy, my practice has been limited to periodic consulting with select clients on intellectual property and litigation matters.

Representative Technology Clients – Cisco Systems, Inc.; Accenture; Hewlett-Packard Company; SimSpace Corporation; Albertson’s Corporation (now SuperValu); Washington Group International (now URS); Blue Cross; Causeit, Inc., a digital futures consultancy; and emerging technology companies, universities, medical institutions, artists, and innovators. My LinkedIn profile details my long-term corporate counsel engagements with Cisco (2013-2018) and HP (2003-2008).

Representative Intellectual Property Strategy Matters – Formulate patent and intellectual property strategy for companies and universities. Devise outbound patent licensing strategy in mobile phone and other consumer electronics sectors. Investigate chains of title and document intellectual property portfolio for university. Advise executives, corporate boards, and engineering teams as to invention creation, patenting prioritization, defensive intellectual property development, chain of title, assignment, and international intellectual property monetization matters.

Representative Technology Matters – Extensive emerging information technology licensing and other transactions worldwide. Indemnity and defense tenders and common defense negotiations in patent infringement litigation. Global risk assessment for mobile application development and offerings in healthcare, connected cars (telematics), mobile payment, and other industries. Negotiated, drafted, monitored compliance, and enforced numerous technology transaction, litigation, and other agreements. Cybersecurity transactions on DARPA and other projects with U.S. Department of Defense and military branches, national laboratories, university research institutes, and industry. English and Spanish language transactions.

Representative Litigation Matters – First and second chair trial in federal and state matters. Lead investigations counsel on multilingual and cross-border patent, conspiracy, racketeering, and related matters; international investigations, contract enforcement, due diligence, and patent assertion litigation; Computer Fraud & Abuse Act litigation; corporate litigation; trademark and trade secret misappropriation litigation; patent defense litigation against non-practicing entities; defamation and misappropriation of digital assets in online games; software piracy matters, including in collaboration with Federal Bureau of Investigation. Pro bono counsel in domestic violence and international child abduction prevention matters.

Representative Intelligence Matters – Chief investigations counsel for multijurisdictional patent and trade secret theft litigations in China, South Korea, the United States. Developed extensive multilingual international tech sector intelligence organization. Created processes and systems by which to execute pre-filing inquiries in accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 requirements. Synthesized strategic intelligence dossiers on multiple Chinese, Taiwanese, and other multinational tech organizations. Created command and control structure analyses reaching to 2000 companies per organization. Developed forensic and other complex analyses, including for auditing patent royalty reports and enforcing inbound patent licensing contracts. Due diligence analyses for merger & acquisition activities in intellectual property services industry. Mapped technology convergence trends involving mobile devices.

lozae@duq.edu

GIESECKE & DEVRIENT, Washington, D.C. area, €8B private German firm

Information Technology Counsel, Mobile Security, Americas, 2012

Representative Projects – Software development, confidentiality and secret material, outbound licensing involving secure operating system, secure elements, secure virtual containers, and secure over-the-air services for mobile devices, outbound and inbound software development kit licenses; requests for proposals; contract template development, standardization, and other legal infrastructure development; risk assessment and management; numerous Open Source and standards compliance projects. Worked constantly and collaboratively with sales executives. Extensive negotiations and international transactions, including on payment card, identity authentication, and M2M (machine-to-machine) matters.

Representative Industry and Government Transactions – OEMs (e.g., Intel, Motorola Mobility, IBM, 3M, HP, Amazon); software and related companies (e.g., Symantec, OnStar); MNOs (e.g., AT&T Mobility, Verizon, T-Mobile); finance and credit companies (e.g., JPM Chase, Capital One, American Express); central and commercial banks (Banco Central de Bolivia, Bank of Canada, Royal Bank of Scotland); taxing authorities (State of Michigan); personnel identification management (U.S. Department of Defense); mobile security, open source, integrated circuits, microprocessor chips (ARM Limited, Qualcomm, Symantec, Intel); standards (PCI, GlobalPlatform).

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, Washington, D.C.

Attorney-Advisor, Office of General Counsel, Office of the Secretary, 2010-2011

Technology Transactions – With secret clearance, advised all eleven agencies under the auspices for the Department, including the National Institute of Standards and Technology and the International Trade Commission. Structured, negotiated, and drafting contracts for outbound software, patent, data rights, and technology licensing and other transactions between U.S. Department of Commerce, including its numerous constituent agencies, and U.S. Departments of Defense and Homeland Security, Office of Naval Research, and numerous other federal, state, and international government agencies and private entities. Advised on IP commercialization, patent issues, and software development audits, distribution restrictions, and Open Source compliance and licensing issues. Extensive negotiations with government and other parties.

Fiscal Law, Compliance & Government Transparency – Ensured compliance with federal appropriations, including under continuing resolutions, agency-specific statutes and regulations, and Office of Management and Budget, General Accounting Office, and other executive branch requirements. Carried out privacy, record retention, and other compliance and adjudicatory matters. Adjudicated Freedom of Information Act appeals and drafted decisions and advisory memoranda. Worked with constituent agency offices of general counsel and ethics counsel on numerous matters, including as to text messaging implementations to comply with public records statutes.
