

Patricia Jones is a Staff Attorney at the Pro Bono Center at the Allegheny County Bar Foundation. She concentrates her practice in representing low-income clients in Allegheny County Common Pleas Court - Family Division in custody conciliation and protection from abuse hearings. She is a pillar in pro bono efforts at the Allegheny County Bar Association and interfaces with its divisions, sections and committees in said efforts. Ms. Jones' work also substantially focuses on molding the next generation of attorneys by overseeing recruitment and training of law student interns at the Pro Bono Center.

Mrs. Jones' streak of volunteerism and public service has followed her throughout her career. She served as Assistant Public Defender of Allegheny County where she defended individuals charged with criminal offenses before Pittsburgh Magistrate's Court and joined the Allegheny County Bar Foundation as a Parent Advocate Attorney representing indigent parents before judges and hearing officers. One of her biggest sources of pride was serving clients as a Volunteer Patient Navigator at UPMC Shadyside Hospital in which she addressed any concerns newly admitted patients may have had to help ensure a positive hospital experience.

Mrs. Jones is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh where she earned her Bachelor of Arts in Economics from the Dietrich School of Arts and Sciences. She obtained her Juris Doctor from Duquesne University School of Law in 1991. Ms. Jones is an active member of the Allegheny County Bar Association Family Law Section, Homer S. Brown Division and Women in the Law Division and commits additional spare time to represent plaintiffs in Protection from Abuse hearings.