

Dr. Barbara Vittitoe
Short Bio

Dr. Barbara Vittitoe held numerous leadership positions in her 24-year career as a naval officer. She has an expansive background in leadership development and has worked with leaders at all levels in the military, the corporate sector, and in higher education. She specializes in coaching, team building, career development, and human resources. She also worked as an independent organization development consultant for years.

Her own educational background is a blend of distance and traditional learning. As such, she understands the challenges of working adults and the need to balance one's education with work and home demands.

Dr. Vittitoe received her Ph.D. from Fielding Graduate University in Human and Organizational Systems. She also has a M. A. degree from Fielding Graduate University in Organization Development. While in the Navy, she earned a M.A. degree in National Security and Strategic Studies from the Naval War College, and an M. Ed. degree in Educational Administration from the University of Memphis. Her B.S. degree in Physical Education was completed at Eastern Kentucky University. Dr. Vittitoe has a strong interest in interpretive and qualitative research.

In her last corporate position, Dr. Vittitoe travelled extensively around-the-globe to work with leaders and managers as the company grew globally. She has recently settled in Washington State and enjoys RVing, hiking, and cycling.