Dr. Rine, Dr. Quiñones, and Dr. Mann discuss a special theme issue about community engagement recently published in Christian Higher Education (Volume 19, Issue 1-2, January 2020). This special issue features a curated set of conceptual and empirical research articles written by scholar-practitioners from eight different institutions representing a wide range of religious, geographic, and structural contexts. As the guest co-editors, Dr. Rine and Dr. Quiñones share insights about the editorial process and provide an overview of the editorial piece. As the author of the lead article in this special issue, Dr. Mann describes how she mapped the landscape of community engagement scholarship and practice at faith-based institutions.
