Located in the heart of Pittsburgh—which is consistently ranked as one of the most livable cities and among America's most fun cities—Duquesne provides you access to a horizon-expanding education, plus many opportunities to explore, intern, volunteer, conduct research and give back to your communities.

Music Therapy student Rachel Anderson, is grateful for Duquesne's proximity to numerous hospitals and clinical sites that have provided her with several hands-on learning opportunities—including a rotation as a music therapy student at UPMC Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

"When I decided on music therapy, I found that Duquesne was one of the few schools that offered it. I fell in love with the program."

Top Employers Hire Duquesne Grads, and Great Grad Schools Recruit Them

In a recent survey of our graduates:

- 95% of respondents reported being employed, continuing their education, completing volunteer service or serving in the military.
 - Employers include: BNY, PwC, Google, Pittsburgh Steelers, Starbucks, various school districts throughout the country, Teach for America, UPMC, Johns Hopkins Medicine and other national and international companies.
 - Graduate and professional schools include: Duquesne University, American University, Carnegie Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, University of Michigan and Penn, among others.
 - 83% of the respondents reported having one or more internships.
- Duquesne students have an average of FOUR internships.

Business grad Ronnie Coleman's story is proof of the earning power of Duquesne grads. He had multiple job offers before graduation, but chose Nestlé—the world's largest food and beverage company.

"The supply chain management knowledge I gained from the Palumbo-Donahue

School of Business, as well as the various skills development sessions offered by Duquesne's Center for Career Development, helped me become a professional ready to take on any business challenge. The Supply Chain Associate position at Nestlé is the perfect role where I can apply all I learned at Duquesne and really make an impact."

Prepared to Stand Out

Get a leg up on your competition in the medical and health care professions with Duquesne's Pre-Medical and Pre-Health Professions Programs (duq.edu/PMHPP). Any qualified student of any major—and who wants to apply to medical school or a health professions program—can earn a certificate.

One Duquesne student who did that was accomplished ballroom dancer Peri Dimitrou. Duquesne was the perfect place to prepare her for medical school—she even earned the 2024 Outstanding Student of the Health Sciences program award.

“Duquesne checked off all the boxes for me. It’s in a big city but with a small campus, so you get to know your professors and classmates. It creates a close-knit community that really helps you reach your goals. I feel very prepared to enter medical school knowing that I’m part of an educational and social network at Duquesne that will continue to support me throughout my life.”

Getting Involved From the Start

In his first year at Duquesne, finance and entrepreneurship double-major Jason Garland served as Vice President of Finance for the Black Student Union, Vice President of Campus Relations for Duquesne's Asset Management Group, a Delta Sigma Pi brother, Techstars StartUp Weekend participant, Alumni Chair for Business Economics Student Association and member of the Entrepreneurship Council.

Jason's favorite study spot on campus is the Investment Institute Room in Rockwell Hall and he loves to eat with friends at Moe's Southwest Grill and Millie's Ice Cream in Market Square.

"Duquesne offers a perfect blend between education, location and opportunities for my career goals. As a Pittsburgh native, I wanted to attend a school close enough to home where I could continue to grow my network, and that was also small enough for me to build relationships with my professors."

Grounded in Duquesne's Catholic and Spiritan heritage, our Bridges Common Learning Experience is for every undergraduate student in every school of study at Duquesne. In addition to building crucial skills for later success, our Bridges curriculum allows you to study a wide variety of subjects and graduate with the richest possible academic experience.

"My favorite class at Duquesne so far was the Honors Bridges EQ course 'Why Do Feelings Matter?' Dr. St. Hilaire is an excellent professor who structures the class to help students learn to identify what emotions look like in the world and within themselves."

Promoting Ethics in Science, Tech and Law

Our Carl G. Grefenstette Center is the first in the world to bring Catholic, Spiritan values and ideals together to discuss the intersection of ethics, tech and faith on campus and in society. The Grefenstette Center hosts an annual symposium, a student-focused hackathon and various seminars with scholars each year.

A Network of Support

Ask any graduating Duquesne senior how they feel about the next step in their lives and you'll hear the same answer: "Prepared." We'll make sure you have the professional confidence, impressive experience and powerful networks you need to get a running start on a meaningful career.

Throughout her time at Duquesne, Samantha Vail was a member of the American Marketing Association and the Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society, as well as public relations chair for Alpha Sigma Tau Society. Samantha also completed valuable internships with the Pittsburgh Penguins, Mindful Kreative agency and Duquesne University's Division of Marketing and Communications.

"The Division of Marketing and Communications at Duquesne University set me up for success in more ways than I can count.

Duquesne equipped me with the skills and resources to confidently enter the workforce and seek opportunities that enrich my professional life. My time at Duquesne and in Pittsburgh has shaped me into the person I am today."
